

What You Need to Know

Due to the coronavirus pandemic, Connecticut voters concerned about COVID-19 can safely and securely cast a mail-in or drop-off absentee ballot for the General Election. Connecticut will still have all Election Day polling places open, however recent legislation temporarily broadens the excuse for absentee balloting to include fear of contracting COVID-19. In addition to creating the comprehensive non-partisan website \(In Spanish\), AARP Connecticut will host a variety of virtual events on what voters need to know about voting in Connecticut in 2020.
